Like the difference between this effect on the Neutron, the vibe on it and the real spectrum. We start with a simple drum sound, we split the signal and then route it to the Neutron plugin. After that we apply a massive choruss effect. We can simply apply this effect on a single voice but why not applying it in realtime on a selection of multiple sounds? Finally, we put the sound on the Blue Sky and to me it is like the real blue sky you can see in a picture. Blue Moon Blue Sky Effect Plugin Neutron Blue Sky Video Demos: I was recently asked to make a spectrum graph that was a result of some mashups. The idea was to show that these stems can be used as an ingredient in your creation, but also how it's not the only way to achieve the desired result. Keymacro (or Keymapper) is an audio effects plugin that enables you to change the keyboard keys (Macro Keys) for any sound.

You can use the plugin to switch any sound into another keyboard key easily. In the menu you will see a list of your sound tracks. Select them and then Keymacro will add them to its internal list. You can add them one by one or select them and add them all at once. You can also specify the parameters (see below) for each sound. This will include the key (for example "Cmd" or "Ctrl"), the range (upper or lower) and the displacement value (which specifies where to start at the sound's waveform). Each sound has it's own default key that the plugin will switch into when it's selected. You can also change these default keys if you wish to change them. If you make changes to the tracks, you can preview the result by simply pressing the key. You can also use a GUI in the bottom bar to add more sounds to your Keymacro list or to change the order of them. A nice feature of Keymacro is that you can change the "Ignore" sound for a key. This means that you can now choose a certain sound that shouldn't be affected by Keymacro when you press that key. Keymacro also comes with automatic start and end markers (switches) which are useful for live performances. Just press the button and Keymacro will play a sound and switch to the next one.

KEYMACRO Features: - Lets you switch soundtracks to any keyboard key - There are many different keyboard keys to choose from - Make any music track play on any keyboard key - Audio can be played back on any Keymacro key - Allows you to create your own favourite key - Allows you to add sounds to any Keymacro key - You can use sounds from the sound library - Can be used in a loop - Lets you set a "Ignore" sound to a key - Very easy to use, just press the key and Keymacro will switch - No need to customize the plugin - Able to switch between tabs - Able to adjust the default key - Configurable start and end markers - Able to pause or stop playback with a key switch - Able to change the volume of the switch 1d6a3396d6
